Taking Charge of Your Health

A charley horse is a painful muscle cramp caused by bruising of the thigh. In addition to cramping, charley horses are often accompanied by swelling, pain, stiffness and skin discoloration (from the bruising). It is recommended to apply the RICE method (Rest, Ice, Compress, Elevate) right after any significant blow to the thigh.

Self-Care Tips

- Apply ice to the entire muscle (or as much of it as you possibly can) right after the injury to slow blood flow and swelling.
- Rest the area; don't work through the pain.
- Take anti-inflammatory drugs
- If not better in seven to 10 days, see a doctor.

If you have additional questions about charley horses, you can also contact your doctor or Columbus Regional Hospital's Ask-A-Nurse at 379-1210 or 1-800-365-0202.
